

Editor's note

Dear theriogenology friends,

We thank the Scientific and Abstract Committee of the American College of Theriogenologists for their hard work. Abstracts truly represent an enormous amount of time, effort and resources invested by the investigators and their institutions. We are impressed with the broad range of topics, techniques, and abstract quality!

There is always a possibility of creating manuscripts from abstracts. Although some abstracts will need further work before a manuscript can be created, many have sufficient information to become either a case report or original paper. Please consider expanding your abstract into a manuscript and when doing so, keep Clinical Theriogenology in mind as a potential target journal.

We really appreciate the willingness of speakers to create very thoughtful and complete reviews for our journal that enrich these pages. For me, it was a privilege and pleasure to work with these scholars. We thank you all for your contributions to theriogenology. In addition, editorial members deserve our appreciation for reviewing and refining the reviews.

Our time spent in editing, copyediting, and formatting are well worth the effort. We are fortunate to have colleagues to help me in these aspects. They are supporting me in my goal to improve the quality of our journal. Please join with me in thanking Drs. John Kastelic and Ahmed Tibary.

Ms. Tara Beasley's help in organizing and managing the timely arrival of abstracts and manuscripts, and working with the committee, authors and me is greatly appreciated.

On another related topic, we are thankful to Dr. Riley Thompson for creating a survey regarding our journal and for our Franz management to complete and compile the results. Thank you for your encouraging comments and by the way, I look forward to receiving reviews (10 of you have agreed to create reviews for the journal).

Finally, I express my deep appreciation to the leadership of our 3 organizations and Dr. Charles Franz for their support and assistance.

Regards,

Augustine
